INTEGRATED FINANCING FRAMEWORK FOR SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT

------------------

2021 ACTION DIALOGUE WORKSHOPS

Scoping note

July 2021
I. Background and rationale

The 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, composed of 17 goals and 169 targets, constitutes a wide range of policies that international organizations, developed and developing countries have committed to implement. In Senegal, this commitment was materialized by the adoption, as early as January 2016, of a national roadmap for the internalization and alignment of the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) in the economic and social policy, declined in the Emerging Senegal Plan (ESP).

To facilitate the achievement of these goals, the 193 states present ratified the Addis Ababa Action Plan in May 2015, at the Third International Conference on Financing for Development designed to reform global financial practices and generate investments to address the various economic, social and environmental challenges. The importance of this reform was reaffirmed at the Davos Economic Forum and successive G20 and G7 summits as central to the success of the Sustainable Development Goals.

At the domestic level, the Government has launched the process of setting up an integrated national financing framework (INFF\(^1\)) to strengthen sources of financing (public and private, national and international) with a view to achieving its emergence and sustainable development objectives in November 2020.

The next step will be a series of ‘multi-stakeholder action dialogues’. These Action Dialogues, led by the Government, aim to strengthen the Integrated National Funding Framework (INFF) by bringing about policy, system and behavioural change towards better partnerships for development and by building on the evidence and data from the monitoring of development effectiveness.

The outcomes of the Action Dialogues will be used to establish integrated financing approaches to: (i) strengthen alignment between public and private investments and sustainable development goals, (ii) improve coherence in the governance of public and private financing policies, and (iii) foster greater collaboration between actors in each financing area.

II. Objectives

The main objective of the consultations is to establish a common understanding between the Government and all development actors (development partners, local elected officials, the private sector, civil society organizations and NGOs) of national sustainable development priorities and to direct financial resources to achieve the SDGs by 2030.

Specifically, the Action Dialogues will be conducted by the government to initiate a reflection on financing for development with all stakeholders, including relevant national partners, to

- improve the coherence of the various financing policies to achieve the SDGs;
- ensure better integration of planning and financing functions, processes and systems for the SDGs;

\(^1\) Integrated national financing frameworks.
• Strengthen the framework for ongoing policy dialogue on financing for sustainable development;
• Strengthen the governance and monitoring/evaluation frameworks of the national sustainable development financing strategy.

III. Expected results
The dialogues are a combination of consultation, dialogue and negotiation with stakeholders in a collaborative process to improve the level of resource mobilization for development financing. The Action Dialogue workshops are expected to:
   i. the will of the government and development actors is at a high political level;
   ii. development actors build as much as possible on existing national development processes and efforts;
   iii. all relevant stakeholders ensure meaningful engagement around financing for development policies;
   iv. governance and monitoring/evaluation frameworks for the national sustainable development financing strategy;

IV. Organizational methodology
   1. Working principles
The INFF dialogues are guided by the four principles of effectiveness: country ownership, inclusive alliances, a focus on results, and transparency and mutual accountability. They will highlight country-level experiences and partnerships and help the government and its partners to harness the full potential of development cooperation and partnerships to build back better and further.

   2. Organization of work
The values that will guide us during these consultations are: collaboration, voluntarism, facilitation, and the need for convergence of concerns. It is planned to hold consultations at the central and territorial levels in the form of workshops. However, some meetings will be held in a hybrid format. All actors are concerned: government services, development partners, local elected officials, civil society, academics, the private sector, decentralized services, the diaspora, etc.

For a better adhesion and a convergence towards the objectives fixed within the framework of the dialogue, the pool of consultants in charge of conducting the evaluation and diagnosis process of the INFF will play the role of facilitators of the dialogues. The members of the technical committee will ensure the external facilitation for a good mobilization and participation of the actors.

The instruments for measuring the satisfaction of the actors involved in the dialogue will be proposed by the consultants, through:
   • a questionnaire for evaluation immediately at the end of the dialogue;
   • a questionnaire for evaluation one month after the end of the dialogue.

   3. Methods of organizing consultations with stakeholders

List of actors involved in each round of consultation
