There are no problems more global, more far-reaching, and more daunting than the climate crisis, the COVID-19 pandemic and ongoing conflicts around the world. Taking place at the midpoint of the Agenda 2030, the 2022 Effective Development Co-operation Summit puts the spotlight on the urgency to accelerate effective development to bring the SDGs back on track.

WHY MULTILATERAL ORGANIZATIONS?

The challenges we face affect everyone and require a global and coordinated response. Strengthened co-operation through collective action agreed upon in multilateral and multi-stakeholder processes (that are country-led, result-focused, inclusive and transparent) can see us through this new era of challenges.

HOW? MULTILATERAL ORGANIZATIONS AS EFFECTIVE DEVELOPMENT ACTORS

- Conveners: Multilateral organizations, coupled with their vast networks at all levels, are best placed to connect stakeholders and create space for policy discussions.
- Innovators: Multilateral organizations leverage innovative resources needed to close the SDG financing gaps.
- Implementers: Multilateral institutions, working directly with governments, champion country priorities, support the development of country-owned policies and programs, and ensure resources reach those furthest behind.

JOIN THE SUMMIT TO BE PART OF CRITICAL DISCUSSIONS ON:

- Facilitating new financing mechanisms and learning for pandemic preparedness and climate action, and for more flexible and predictable support
- Balancing humanitarian and rapid responses with long-term solutions addressing the root causes of the challenges facing us
- More effective coordination between actors to avoid duplication and fragmentation of development co-operation efforts
- Strengthening the capacity and systems of local partners to ensure more sustainable results
